

Bridges Prep News & Notes: March 1, 2019

From Dr. Herbst's desk ...

Paideia! Earlier last month, staff learned more about Paideia instruction from national experts. Then, our great faculty put that training into the classroom. Here, students completed a seminar and created children's books as their projects.

Paideia is an essential part of teaching and learning at Bridges Prep. To learn more about it, a good starting point is <https://www.paideia.org/about-paideia/philosophy/>.

College visits: Our rising seniors visited The Citadel and College of Charleston (right) recently. The tours gave them a taste of these exceptional college campuses. The Citadel gave them a shout-out on Facebook! Thanks to all who made this possible, and we look forward to sharing their experiences at other universities in coming weeks.

PTO Shrimp & Grits Block Party March 9: We know you've got it on your calendar already, but make a note, this is going to be the BEST Block Party ever! Our PTO has done an amazing job setting up all the events and activities, including great bands, fun stuff for the younger children, booths and sponsors, and of course chefs for the Shrimp & Grits Cook-Off!

You won't want to miss any of it, especially since our Bridges Prep Board of Directors accepted the PTO's challenge and will participate as chefs! We'll share more in next week's newsletter, but keep up to date by following the Bridges Block Party on Facebook. Well done and thank you, PTO!

Black History Month: Across all grade levels, we took time in February to study African-American history and cultural contributions. With Penn Center on St. Helena Island the Reconstruction Monument designation for areas of Beaufort, Port Royal and St. Helena, we are especially blessed with opportunities to learn more about this important element of our nation's history.
